

Telegraph T2 Inter-college Fest

Salesian College Siliguri Campus emerged champions in the first ever Telegraph T2 Inter-college Festival held on 29th and 30th September 2012 at City Centre, Uttarayan, Siliguri. A total of 15 colleges of North Bengal took part in the two day programme in the presence of a large audience with the participants vying with each other in five events, namely, Eastern Solo, Antakshari, Fusion Dance, Western Band and Face of the Campus. On both the days the programme started at 2.00 pm and went late into the evening with audience cheering and clapping loudly as students from various colleges showcased their talents on the stage.

The event was organized by The Telegraph T2 in association with the American Centre Kolkata. Salesian College Siliguri Campus emerged overall champions picking up prizes in four out of the five events held. Rufus Lepcha a first year student of the college bagged the first prize in Eastern Solo with his scintillating performance. The first prize was also bagged by the college in Fusion Dance which was indeed a feast for the eyes of all present. In Antakshari and Western Band, the College became the runners up. For Salesian College, in the new campus in Siliguri which is in its fourth year, it is no mean achievement to emerge as champions in such a short time of its existence offering us a glimpse into the potential the new campus holds in the region. Kudos to Fr. Nirmol Gomes, the Vice Principal of the College, for meticulously preparing the students to take part in the Festival that brought laurels to the institution.
