BLOOD DONATION CAMP 2013

Salesian College Siliguri Campus

The NSS team of Salesian College Siliguri organized a blood donation camp in collaboration with the Siliguri Terai Lions blood bank in order to overcome the scarcity of blood going on in the city. The event commenced at around 10:30 am onwards just after the arrival of the Doctor in charge, Dr. Om Prakash Agarwal and the members from the blood bank. The arrangements required were taken care of by the members of the blood bank, with the help of the students and even necessary precautions were taken. The programme was supported by the teaching and the non-teaching staff of the college who also contributed by donating blood. It was an open camp where all the outsiders were also welcomed to donate blood and some outsiders were seen for the cause. There were arrangements of refreshments and certificates for the donors. The total number of donors was 58 who donated 58 units of blood. Mr. Atul Jhavar, the president, of the Siliguri Terai Lions blood bank had also come who was very pleased to see the donors donating blood and expressed his hearty gratitude towards the donors. He also presented a memento as a token of appreciation to the campus and expresses his gratitude to the management, teaching and non-teaching staff and the students of the campus. He encouraged the volunteers to organize more such camps in near future. Chanchal Agarwal (B.com 3rd year) and Livia Mithu Mondal (B.A 3rd year), the senior most students of the campus and the student council members had taken up the responsibility to organize the blood donation camp. The blood donation camp was a successful event which came to an end at around 2:30 pm.
