'Diwali Milan'

The Diwali celebration intended to take place on 9th November 2013 was postponed and got organized on 21st November 2013. After having a day of normal classes for both the morning and day shift the celebrations began in the college basket ball court, which was readied for the occasion. All the students with the passes were expected to be there in the premises by 4 pm in ethnic wear, which was the dress code for the day. The gates were to be closed by 4:15 pm. The volunteers were assigned with different duties with matters regarding the gate pass and discipline. The program began at 4:30 pm with the 'Rangoli' Competition. The various clubs were allotted different spots in the basketball court for the preparation of their artwork using colours and accessories such as Indian lamps (diyas), flower petals, etc. Time allotted for the purpose was 40 minutes. The 'Rangoli' competition was followed by a mesmerizing song by Fr. Nirmol Gomes and team. Dance performances were held along with the bursting of crackers. Arshdeep Singh of B.Com (General) presented a song for the occasion followed by a dance number by Ms. Anushree (Faculty – Department of Psychology). By 5:30 pm it was time to give away the awards for the best attired male and female for the evening, for which the contestants were asked to walk the ramp. The judges for the rangoli competition, Father James Chacko declared Fine Arts Club as the winner. Umang Mittal and Dipesh Mittal were presented the best attired male; the best attired female was given to Gracy Neinunhoih and Raina Mohalanobish. By 6 pm the prizes were given away and everybody danced on to the music played till 6:40 pm, after which 20 minutes break was given for taking refreshments from the canteen. The celebrants finally bid a rather reluctant goodbye by 7 pm.
