One Billion Rising at City Centre

With much pomp and pleasure the most awaited event was welcomed in the City Centre Siliguri, by 20 renowned institutions including different schools and colleges. It was the 'One Billion Rising event' and the most highlighted performance was the Flash mob. A huge crowd witnessed the performers and joined to break the chain, as a mark of protest against any kind of crime against women. The organizers belonged to the 'Mary ward social centre', which is a kind of NGO run by the Loreto sisters.

The program started at 4 pm and was declared open by the Salesian college student Tony Thomas who played a vital role as an anchor throughout the show. Meanwhile Anshu Chhetri another Salesian student was chosen as a volunteer.

It was indeed a wonderful experience to be a part of the One Billion Rising and to cry out the slogan together as the crowd pledged and roared "Enough is Enough, No more Violence."
